

Just a line
 Gallipoli
 Be sure to write
 as I am looking forward
 to a letter from home.
 I volunteered on the 23/9/16

SOLDIER PORTRAITS

Nearly 27,000 Queensland soldiers had their portrait taken and published in The Queenslander newspaper. Each portrait represents part of a Queensland family's story of their First World War experience.

State Library has digitised all of the soldier portraits in The Queenslander and is making them available online through One Search, our catalogue.

<http://qanzac100.slq.qld.gov.au/showcase/soldier-portraits>

SLQ is also working with the National Archives of Australia to match and connect the soldier portraits with their war service record on the. Not all soldiers can be matched, but where this is possible a link to their service record is also available in One Search.

<http://discoveringanzacs.naa.gov.au/>

SERGEANT W. C. LINES

Far left: Sergeant W.C. Lines, one of the soldiers photographed in The Queenslander Pictorial, supplement to The Queenslander, 1915. Image number: 702692-191505

Left: Roll of Honour. Page 26 of the Queenslander Pictorial, supplement to The Queenslander, 22 May, 1915. Image number: 702692-19150522-0026

Finding soldier portraits

The portraits in The Queenslander included a caption of the soldier's surname and initials, for example, W. J. Caton. In One Search, our catalogue, the best way to search for a soldier is by surname, including the word 'soldiers' in your search terms, and limiting your search to SLQ Collections. Anyone can view, add a comment, and download for free a high resolution digital file of any of the portraits.

<http://onesearch.slq.qld.gov.au/>

This project is proudly supported by the Queensland Government

